Andover Minds And Hopes Take A Major Step Toward The Moon

(Special To The Townsman)

America's dramatic race to the moon will take another major step forward next week when Apollo 7, with a three man crew, roars into space from Cape Kennedy.

Heading toward the heavens with Walter M. Schirra, Jr., commander; Walter Cunningham and Donn Eisele, will be seven men from Andover and North Andover, whose job it has been to insure their safe return after an 11 day flight.

The group from Andover, whose thoughts will be riding with the silver capsule, are employed by Avco Space Systems division in Lowell who have developed the heat shield which will protect the men from the severe heat which will surround the space vehicle when it comes back to earth.

Apollo 7 - a 10-day mission that will see its three-man crew orbit the Earth once every 90 minutes. Apollo 7 - the first manned flight of the Apollo moonship. Apollo 7 - another step in this country's race for the Moon.

And while the whole world will be watching the launch - sometime around October 11 - none will be watching with more interest than these local men.

For Ralph Bentley, Hubert Burke, George Bubar, Harold Aznoian, Jeremiah Davey, Zenon Soboll and Alan Wilson, the successful completion of the Apollo 7 mission will be the reward they have been working toward for many years.

All seven are employed by Avco Space Systems in Lowell. The heat shielf on the Apollo Command Module was developed by Avco, and all seven are active participants in the Apollo program.

The success of the completion of the upcoming manned flight - the first in the Apollo program - will depend upon the heat shield. Reentry heats on Apollo 7 will reach approximately 3,500 degrees farenheit when the Command Module reenters the Earth's atmosphere at a speed of 17,500 mph.

The ablative material which constitutes the outside surface of the heat shielf - a phenolic epoxy resin, or type of reinforced plastic - was the result of three years work by Avco to produce, first a material able to cope with the unique environments of a lunar mission, taking into account stringent weight restrictions; and, second, to develop fabrication techniques for applying the material in varying thicknessess across the stainless steel structure of the space capsule. The thickness of the finished ablative material averages only two inches.

During reentry the heat shield will be exposed to an increasingly severe flow and will undergo a rise in temperature similar to any burning cycle: charring, followed by combustion or melting. The difference - and the job of the ablative material - is controlling the rate of absorption.

The ablative shield absorbs the heat in rapid sequence by, in effect, forcing these stages of burning or melting to occur prematurely at the same time, the time-span of each is greatly reduced. In this way, the heat bombarding the heat shield is blocked from traveling back as far as the metal surface of the spacecraft. This eliminates the fourth and final stage of an uncontrolled burning cycle: total destruction. And while all this takes place outside the capsule, the crew inside will experience little or no change in

Town Votes Monday On School

A town meeting, called special only because it has to be according to statue, is scheduled for Monday, with the main item considered to be the proposed $2,250,000 West school addition.

This edition of the town's annual business, was approved at the annual town meeting in March when voters approved a proposal to schedule two town meetings a year, one, the regular session in March, with a second to be held the first Monday in October.

Most attention will be focused on the proposed school construction. School officials have been attending PTA meetings and have offered explanations of the need for the school and its design.

Possibly most of the residents of the community have already made up their minds about the proposed new building, since there was an apparent display of apathy on the part of the voters Tuesday night at an open meeting on the warrant.

Registration Deadline

The last day to register voters for the November election will be held at the town house on Saturday, Oct. 5 from noon until 10 p.m. This is also the last day to accept applications for a partial ballot. Only persons who have moved into the town from out of the state are eligible for this ballot, providing they have been in the state 31 days.

Town Clerk Irving O. Piper wishes to remind new voters that they must be registered by 4:30 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 4, in order to attend the town meeting to be held on Monday, Oct. 7.

The Educational Climate Broadens

Andover, already well-known for its educational potential, will be further enriched with the addition of Bryant-McIntosh College to its boundaries.

Edward C. Bryant, president of the school, now located in Lawrence announced plans for a new campus and program for the school at a conference Wednesday night at Rolling Green Motor Inn, a short distance from where the new 60-acre campus will be located.

Planned to be ready for classroom occupancy by September, 1969, the new campus will be located on Lowell St., across from the location of the Andover Bible Chapel.

Mr. Bryant at the Wednesday meeting disclosed plans which will find the 88-year old business school, going into new programs, student residence facilities, faculty housing, library buildings and dining and student union facilities.

Edward C. Bryant
(A Look To The Future)

Initial plans in the first phase of development call for about $4,000,000 in new construction for the school which will be placed, "New England style," on a campus naturally screened from the surrounding neighborhood.

Bryant told those at the news conference that the land now appears to be entirely wooded when viewed from the street. The wooded area, however, provides a perfect, natural screen to open high land inside. This will be the location of the campus.

Mr. Bryant took over the presidency of the school in August of 1966. His goal - turn the 88-year old business school into a junior college.

Initially it was necessary to update the library facilities. This was accomplished at the Lawrence building.

Additions to the faculty were also necessary. This likewise has been done in the short time that he has been the top administrator at the school.

Next was the expansion of the curriculum, which has been accomplished and in particular the addition of an aviation program modeled after the Miami-Dade Junior college. Last spring, the McIntosh aviation training program was found to be ranking very well among the programs offered throughout the country.

Student life had to be improved, and this was done through the introduction of extra-curricular activities such as a basketball team which is now competing in the Eastern Massachusetts Small College conference

Then there was the inevitable problem of an increased student body and where to house them. Temporarily, arrangements were made with Rev. Charles G. Shields, rector of Grace Episcopal church in Lawrence, to use classroom space. Bryant and his associates began looking around, however, for proper facilities for the enlarged program and the thoughts of the future.

Offers came from New Hampshire and Vermont, but Mr. Bryant felt that with its historic background, Bryant-McIntosh belonged to the local area.

There were sites in North Andover, but it was the Andover property which finally was found to be most suitable.

He and his fellow administrators are now working with federal officials to obtain financial assistance to bring about the proposed New England style campus with its more than adequate parking facilities.

The new school will offer varying programs such as a liberal arts transfer program, a course

Our Post Office Is Honored

(A TOWNSMAN Newsfeature)

Postmaster Francis J. Mooney of Andover was recognized Wednesday by the presentation of the Post Office Department's Superior Accomplishment award.

The presentation was made by Postal Service Officer Joseph F. Montle on behalf of Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson and Regional Director Donald P. Steele.

Postmaster Mooney accepted the award for himself and on behalf of the employees of the Andover Post Office.

A letter accompanying the award cited Postmaster Mooney's efficient handling of the many details of his position, his unusual willingness to assist his coworkers, his enthusiastic cooperation with the post office department and the regional office and his untiring efforts to provide the patrons of the Andover Post Office with the best postal service possible with budgetary limitations prescribed by the Congress of the United States.

In recent years the local post office has taken, and handled with efficiency and dispatch, an ever-increasing volume of mail.

The increased work load has been brought on by the addition to

McAllister - Delaney

In St. Augustine's church, on August 24, Miss Judith Ellen Delaney, daughter of Mrs. M. Alta Delaney, 59 Haverhill St. and the late Thomas J. Delaney, became the wife of Ronald J. McAllister. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. McAllister, 53 Whittier St.

Rev. James A. Wenzel OSA celebrated the nuptial Mass at 1 p.m. and the couple received the Papal blessing. Rev. Harry Erdland OSA of Merrimack College also blessed them.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Thomas J. Delaney Jr., wore a cloud-white silk linen gown, trimmed with Irish lace. Her head piece was a full-length illusion veil crowned with a tiny cluster of poms. She carried a small bouquet of miniature poms and ivy.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Moira Prout Abell of Florida as matron of honor, Mrs. Linda Aumais of Methuen, sister of the bride, and Miss Janet Bernius of Bradford as bridesmaids. They wore identical A-line aqua linen gowns and carried bouquets of poms, in shades of aqua, lavendar and white. Their headpieces were of the same flowers.

John B. McAllister Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and David Murphy of Andover and Gerald Griffin of Methuen were ushers. William O'Reilly and Terrance Prout served as altar boys.

After a reception at Indian Ridge Country Club, Mr. and Mrs. McAllister left for their wedding trip to Nantucket Island.

The former Miss Delaney is a graduate of Andover High School and the Lowell General School of Nursing.

Mr. McAllister graduated from Central Catholic High School in Lawrence and Merrimack College in North Andover. He is now attending Duke University graduate School of Psychology, where he is enrolled in a program leading to a doctorate degree in social psychology.

They will make their home at 817 Lancaster St., Durham, N.C.

Students On Field Trip

The first field trip of the school year found 51 students of home economics at East Junior High attending the Jordan Marsh Fabricana Fashion Show in Boston. Accompanied by their teachers, Mrs. Emily Danforth and Mrs. Paula Gaynor, they witnessed demonstrations of new iron-on interfacings and many new kinds of zippers, both invisible and decorative.

One commentator gave hints on coming fashions including the "baffling hem-line." Vogue patterns and American woolens from many manufacturers were featured

Ecumenos Players Plan To Expand Program

To continue the series of productions of plays which have created lively community interest during the past year, the Ecumenos Players at a recent meeting laid plans for presenting both three-act plays and theater workshops in the coming months.

These will be announced to their patron subscribers and the public in the near future.

The Ecumenos Players was established in 1967 to promote good theater in Andover using the resources of amateur or semi-professional talent. It has in its first year of existence created a loyal following through the plays done before local audiences both at its own playhouse located in the Ballardvale Community Center and in various churches or clubs around town.

Outside productions were H.C. Ward's "The Prodigal Son" for a cooperative program of Congregational churches. Plays given in Ballardvale during the winter season and as a special summer production with the co-operation of the Andover Recreation Department have included Sean O'Casey's "Bedtime Story," Elaine May's "Not Enough Rope," Maurice Valency's "Feathertop," Anton Chekhov's "A Marriage Proposal," and Edna St. Vincent Millay's "Aria da Capo." In addition, the Players have held regular workshop sessions designed to familiarize amateurs with dramatic technique and to gain them experience in projecting roles.

This season Mrs. Helen Olivier, who has conducted courses in acting interpretation in the Phillips Academy Evening Study Program will direct a play, thus providing professional coaching for interested members. Those without acting inclinations have discovered abilities in staging, publicity, ticket sales, and hospitality.

In presenting drama in Ballardvale, the Players have sought to surround themselves with an atmosphere conducive to relaxed enjoyment by providing a coffee-house setting with refreshments, a display of original art works, and casual groupings of its audiences. The desire to afford expression for a wide variety of plays from different periods and in different styles is reflected in its title, "Ecumenos," which means universal. The same also indicates its desire to encourage membership from other communities in the Merrimack Valley.

Its concern for drama as a creative activity worthy of community support has led it to become a founder of the Andover Arts Council recently organized as the coordinating agency for promoting Andover's support of the Arts.

The enrollment of new members and the announcement of the forthcoming plays and workshops will be the subjects of the Ecumenos Players' next meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the Ballardvale Community Center. Anyone desiring advance information about the groups activities or specific openings in its various departments may contact Irving Bluestien after 6 p.m.

The person who does nothing but take up room in this life usually overdoes the thing.

Boosters Observe 20th Year

ORIGINAL BOOSTERS. This group formed the original Andover Boosters club 20 years ago. Over the years the group has raised over $45,000 to assist athletic and educational programs for the youth of the community. Standing, left to right, Herve Guertin, Charles Dalton, Harold Wennik and Walter Pearson. Seated, left to right, James Christie, J. Everett Collins, the first president of the organization, and Charles O. McCullom.

The Andover Boosters Club, an organization which for the past 20 years has voluntarily supported athletic and educational endeavors for the youth of the community, will conduct its annual membership drive beginning next week.

From a humble beginning when the group was composed of seven men, the organization has grown to a large membership and over the 20 year period has contributed almost $45,000 toward youth activities and educational benefits for young people.

The organization was founded in September 20 years ago when J. Everett Collins, James Christie, Walter "Stretch" Pearson, and Harold Wennik were watching a Punchard High football practice.

In the course of the afternoon an athletic supply firm delivered to the then Athletic Director Kenneth McKiniry, four varsity football jerseys. McKiniry promised payment following the third varsity football game.

The matter came to the attention of the four men and Collins, after hearing from McKiniry that there just were no funds, called for a meeting at the town house that night. Joining with them were Charles McCullom, Charles Dalton and Herve Guertin.

It was decided that a fund drive was needed and a name for the organization. It was called the Andover Boosters club and enough funds were produced in short order to field one of the best equipped and uniformed interscholastic football teams in the area - Punchard, now Andover high school.

Other athletic teams were uniformed properly, such as the track team, basketball club, baseball team.

Then the organization learned of the need to properly outfit the famed all-girls band. This the Boosters set their mind to and provided complete uniforms for the 100 members of the marching unit.

The Boosters have also provided funds for interscholastic competition, such as the time when Punchard competed in a New England track meet at Bowdoin college. No funds were available for transportation, but the Boosters were able to send the squad to Lewiston Maine and the track team was appreciative, returning with the area championship.

Next the organization set up a scholarship fund to assist worthy students in furthering their education. Since the inception of this phase of their work, the Boosters have aided 78 boys and girls in continuing their studies.

Andover school authorities have been able to set up certain funds for the various athletic and band activities over the years, but the Boosters continue to "fill the gap," and are continuing to develop new projects to aid the young people of the community.

They are assisting Little League baseball, Junior League football, basketball programs for young people during the winter months.

The annual Boosters Invitational Track meet has become so large, that it is now limited to 15 to 18 schools regardless of conference class.

During the anniversary program and drive, a homecoming game will be featured, with Andover High meeting the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical High school and the new football field.

The chairman of the 20th anniversary drive was to be Roger Whitcomb, who was vice president. He died in June and Hal Wennik has substituted as the chairman, assisted by J. Everett Collins the first president, Robert B. McIntyre, current president and several other committee members.

The Boosters have been commended for their work and wished success in their current drive by state and local officials.

Summer School Discussed

Interest in the town's secondary school summer school has dropped at the junior high level, and secondary school students were not very interested in the enrichment courses offered, according to secondary summer school director Arthur Danforth. Remedial courses were chosen rather than classes offering a chance to move to a higher math track, to work in industrial arts, or arts and crafts.

The school committee asked Danforth, who said he would be leaving his post as director, to submit a plan for next year's summer school in time for budget consideration.

Edward Regan, Shawsheen principal who headed the elementary school summer school found that section of the summer school a financial failure (as planned) and an educational success. He recommended that next year phonics be taught as a subject separate from reading, which he felt should be a comprehension course. Regan was in favor of continuing the policy of having the library open to neighborhood children as well as to summer school students, and suggested an objective evaluation of the program by parents would be helpful toward next year. He recommended earlier planning and an open ended approach for next year's session, which will probably be in Bancroft school, where air conditioning will be available.

BOWEN TO SPEAK

Richard J. Bowen, town manager, will be at the Free Christian church, Sunday morning at 8:30 a.m. for an informal discussion. The group will meet in the parlor, coffee will be served and an invitation is extended to all who wish to come.

If you are a new cook, this will add confidence. If you have cooked for some time, it will be a chance to vary your ideas.

We will hold three classes on Thursday evenings, Oct. 17th, 24th and 31st., from 8 to 10 p.m. in the cooking room of the East Junior High School.

This class will be limited in number. Please sign up at the CO-OP office or with Mary S. Angus. The charge will be five dollars ($5.00) for the course.

Swimming Program Outlined

Details of the public school swimming instructional program at the Phillips Academy pool for fourth-graders, who do not know how to swim, were outlined by athletic director Donald D. Dunn at the school committee meeting Monday evening.

The program, conducted on a pilot basis last year at two elementary schools, is being expanded to include non-swimmers in the fourth grades of all Andover public schools. A swim program for trainable children from Jackson school will be run in the mornings at the Greater Lawrence Boys' Club.

The fourth grade program which is free and voluntary will be divided into two 13 week sessions, the first beginning Oct. 27, for South, West and Sanborn schools. An identical program will begin in February for Bancroft, Central and Shawsheen schools.

Each of the three schools will have a week, in turn, to screen its fourth-graders to determine which pupils need instructions - i.e., which cannot swim. After the three weeks of screening, instruction will take place Mondays and Thursdays at the PA pool from 5:15 to 6:30 p.m. under Miss Carol Dowd, assisted by teachers' aides and volunteers. Parents of the children receiving instruction will be asked to assist in the locker rooms, shower rooms and with bookkeeping, as was done last year. Dunn pointed out that the program is sponsored by the school department as part of the school day and is covered by the school insurance plan.

Children enrolled in the swim program for trainable children at the Boys Club in Lawrence will be transported to the Boys Club two mornings a week. The program will be open to afternoon-session trainable children at Jackson in the first semester, and to the other sessions when the classes switch in February.

In another program open to trainable children from the Jackson school, the school committee approved transportation, if waivers of responsiblity are provided, of morning-session children 10:50 a.m. to the Youth Center for a physical education program conducted with volunteer help. Buses will pick the children up at Jackson school. Mrs. Harold DeBolt will be in charge of transportation for this service.

Mrs. Cole expressed the hope that the swim program for trainable children might be extended to all Jackson children. Dr. Richard Katz said he hoped that the Andover schools would before long have their own pool and be able to expand the swimming program already begun.

Soccer Will Be Part Of Interscholastic Plans

Andover High school will field a varsity soccer team next fall, by unanimous vote of the school committee on the motion of Mrs. Virginia Cole. Tennis is also on the way as a varsity sport for both boys and girls.

According to athletic director, Donald D. Dunn, not only are fields available for soccer, but 40 boys are active on an intramural squad under the direction of Keng-Jen Lee and a volunteer assistant, John Steitz. Informal games with North Andover and Wilmington have been scheduled.

It looked for a few minutes Monday night as if committeeman William King were going to make the motion for varsity soccer; however Mrs. Cole, whose soccer drive began last winter, managed to keep the ball and make the score herself. King, who seconded her motion, gets credit for an "assist."

When Mrs. Cole served up questions on tennis too, Dunn was able to return that the seven recently equipped and fenced courts behind West Junior high are seeing plenty of use. Tennis is already part of the boys intramural program and he said he expected the girls to be playing intramural tennis by spring. Dunn confirmed that the second blacktopped play area could be used for tennis courts later on if student interest justifies this. The new courts reportedly saw full use over the weekends by Andover residents.

As for other athletic facilities, Dunn gave credit to town manager Richard J. Bowen's efforts for successful completion of fencing, public address system, and hot-topping in time for the Wilmington football game last Saturday. The only problem, Dunn said was need for another gate in the fence for better circulation, so Andover spectators could walk across the short end of the field to get to drinking fountains and lavatories more easily.

Dunn also had compliments for the Teen Center's evening gym sessions. Dunn describing them as a full and active group who were using the gym responsibly.

Heseltine Takes Over Sport Shop

George E. Heseltine, 14 Argyle St., has taken over ownership of Dana's Sport Shop, 62 Main St.

Heseltine, who has been active in business and civic organizations for several years, has been manager of the store for the past five years. He assumed the ownership from Dana Hill last Friday.

He will continue to carry a complete line of sporting goods at the store.

A graduate of Punchard High school with the class of 1955, he served in the United States Air Force. He attended Merrimack College and was employed at the Andover Shop for four years prior to joining the sporting goods firm.

He is past president of the Andover Chamber of Commerce and is chairman of the organization's retail committee.

Married to the former Helen Murphy, the couple has three children, Charles, six; Scott, four and George, eight months.

Steps Installed As Aid To Reservation Visitors

A set of wooden steps has been installed on the Andover Village Improvement Society's Shawsheen River Reservation, scaling the fence which separated this Reservation from the Society's Vale Reservation.

The steps now make it an easy matter for hikers to get over the fence and, by connecting the two reservations, make it possible to walk uninterruptedly along the Shawsheen River all the way from the Abbott (Horn) Bridge at Central St. to the dam in Ballardvale. Colorful fall foliage makes this an enjoyable hike at this time of year. The steps were made by boys at the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational school under the guidance of Mr. John Childs.

Trustees of AVIS suggest that a delightful fall foliage trip by canoe can be made on the Shawsheen River, going upstream from Ballardvale towards Tewksbury. AVIS maintains, under license from the Boston and Maine Railroad, a four-acre tract of woodland which is about one half mile above the Ballardvale Dam on the west bank of the river. There are two canoe landing places, marked by identifying AVIS signs.

This is a very pleasant place to stop for a picnic or short walk. Visitors are reminded to keep at least 20 feet from the railroad track, a condition of continued use, and to be careful not to litter.

The care of the hair has always been one of women's major beauty problems. Without her hair, the prettiest woman becomes a fright, as Apuleius wrote nineteen hundred years ago in ancient Carthage. He was, of course, dead right. After World War II in Europe, patriotic citizens shaved the heads of women who had been friendly with the enemy, choosing this as the most humiliating form of punishment, as even the most attractive girl looked terrible with no hair. "Take away the hair of a beautiful woman, strip her brow of this ornament, and had she even descended from heaven, if she appeared with a bald head, she cannot please." Surprising things can be done with any type of hair as long as there is enough to work with . . . Complete beauty service is yours at CAPILO HAIR STYLISTS, 2 Riverina Rd., Shawsheen – Andover . . . The report this year was designed to inform the residents of the business of the community during the past year and attractively decorated by school children who were requested to characterize municipal government.

Proposed Bryant–McIntosh Campus Off Lowell Street

EDUCATION

in fire science technology and also law enforcement - terminal programs for those who will be entering the service of communities in fire fighting or police work.

There will be mental health aid courses, programs for the ever increasing in popularity teacher aids.

The aviation program will be opened up to include courses for air traffic control specialists, a current need in the field of aeronautics.

Also planned are courses in hotel-motel management, library technicians and data processing.

Also planned is a computer service center on the campus, which will be available to service both government and industry.

To Mr. Bryant, the plans are "an exciting pioneering program for us."

The close to $4,000,000 to be spent in the first phase of development, will provide space for a student body of about 400. The second phase which will call for further physical development will accommodate a student body of 800 to 1,000.

Dormitories are expected to accommodate about one-third of the student population.

Wednesday night's program, a sort of development campaign kickoff, was one which was enthusiastic - and one which could prove rewarding not only to the school but also its Andover address.

Town Meeting

Attendance at the town meeting Monday night is mandatory for every eligible voter in Andover.

The special town meeting in July dealing with the Raytheon decision brought out the largest number of citizens in the history of the town.

It would be a magnificent display of attention to municipal matters, if the turnout could be duplicated on Monday, but unfortunately it probably will not.

Principle item Monday night will be the addition to the West school. It is necessary in order to relieve overcrowded educational facilities in the community.

The cost is in excess of $2,000,000 – an item that will be with us in our municipal economics for the next 20 years.

Some may feel that this is an automatic expenditure – that no one dares toy with education or facilities to provide proper learning for our children.

The subject should be, however, far from automatic passage and open to debate by the taxpayers of the community. One might assume that such an expenditure should not be taken lightly, even though there is a need.

The town has been somewhat lax in facing up to its educational needs, seemingly behind time on providing additional educational facilities when they are needed. Possibly the school department and town department heads' calendars do not always jibe.

A vote on Monday night either for or against the West school addition, should be promulgated on the theory that there is a need and that this is the best and most economical solution to an educational problem.

There are other items in the warrant which also need the attention of the voters.

This is the first of what is now according to town bylaws the second town meeting of the year.

A good attendance will insure its continued success.

The Boosters

We join with the countless number of state and local officials in commending the Andover Boosters club and encouraging the local citizenry in supporting their annual membership drive.

Over the past 20 years the club has endorsed and aided countless activities for the youth of the community.

That their efforts have borne fruit is self-evident in the success of their many programs.

Efforts such as this on a community wide basis are to be encouraged. It is the youth of the community who are to be our future leaders.

The Boosters have done much to provide athletic and educational opportunities for thousands in Andover.

We hope that their drive is successful in order that their work may continue for many years to come.

Newspaper Week

It is not an egotistical desire to extoll the work of the American press during National Newspaper Week being observed this week, but rather a desire on the part of the community newspaper – The TOWNSMAN – to note the satisfaction of hopefully serving the townspeople.

Each week there is editorial satisfaction in the fruition of another publication, one we hope is serving and informing the community.

Our freedom to publish, to attack things we feel are not right, to praise the things we think are commendable, are guaranteed by the constitution. This right is a very important responsibility and one not taken lightly.

From the editor's desk spring the ideas which hopefully will be both entertaining and enlightening.

This is important in this day and age of electronics, computers and space age science.

It is of great satisfaction to compose weekly the printed word through which we speak to our readers. We speak in full and printed words, not in numbers or in alphabetical designations.

In an age in which all mankind has been reduced to a social security card, a zip code or a credit card number, we feel proud to be a little more personal in our weekly conversation through the medium of the printed page.

We intend to continue to defend the people's "right to know," through our news columns and continue to be your public informant of the happenings of your community.

We're proud to be of service and talk to you weekly on a personal basis. To us you are not a number or an alphabetical listing, but a very important part of the lifeblood of this community.

We must admire the devotion of a small band of members of American Legion Post 8, who are consistently attentive to the responsibilities, so to speak, of their organization. Led by Commander Benjamin Brown, the group is always attentive to the needs of their comrades. For the most part the men are veterans of World War I, and despite being along in years, seem to have more attention to service than their younger compatriots who have served in World War II and later conflicts.

Noticed driving around town the other day a pastime we once enjoyed as a child, big piles of leaves to jump into and drive mother's washing machine crazy trying to get rid of the ensuing dust.

While it is still a popular pastime for the youngsters, and there really is a hidden desire to give it a try once again, there is also an inherent danger in the habit, since motorists may park cars near the piles of leaves and not notice the youngsters playing there.

One of the most popular places in town these days is the new tennis courts at the high school. Tennis has long been advocated by recreation enthusiasts locally. The completion of the courts at the school complex has provided relaxing, energetic hours for hundreds of local residents, as well as fulfilling another phase of the school department's program.

This is just about the finest time of the year here in New England.

Nature, which can be violent at times, puts on its most brilliant exhibition, with the turning of the leaves.

Roadsides and woodlands become a thing of beauty to behold and no doubt Sunday afternoons the next few weeks will find the highways filled with families just out for a leisurely drive to admire the annual outstanding lustre of the countryside.

It was somewhat appropriate last week at the funeral of John L. Dugan when a train passed through shortly after the Mass had begun in St. Augustine's church.

Railroading was his life, having been affiliated with the Wabash Railroad in Boston for years prior to his retirement. He was a daily commuter on the well-known 7:11 a.m. Boston and Maine train for many years.

The infrequency of rail traffic made the passing of a freight both ironic and symbolic last Wednesday.

Rod Hill was in fine form last Thursday night as the Andover Service club began its season for another year. Rod is president this year and introduced new members and guests. For the first session, it was a delicious steak dinner at the Log Cabin at Phillips Academy, with Forrest Noyes and Martin Caughey presiding at the "social counter."

Films, Slides, Lecture Featured At Library

Colorful travel movies on Canada will be shown at the Memorial Hall Library on Friday, Oct. 4, at 7:30 p.m. Movies from Canada are noted for their beauty, stimulating interest and careful attention for evocative detail. Three short films will be presented for this showing. The first is entitled "Canada's Waterways West" and explores the pleasures of our northern neighbor via its many inland rivers and waterways. Next, the film "Canadian National Exhibition" give us a roundup of fun and excitement at a major trade fair show in Toronto. Finally there is the lovely film "Orison", which introduces us to the many quiet, historic churches and to some of the church history of one of the Maritime Provinces, Nova Scotia.

The entire showing will run for just over an hour. This is the type of film program to which you can bring the entire family for a thoroughly rewarding experience. The beauty of Canada combined with a well-deserved reputation for excellence in its movies, will insure a pleasurable and worth-while evening for all who attend this program.

INDIA LECTURE SLIDES

A colored slide show and lecture on India will be presented by Miss Lillian Picken at the Memorial Hall Library on Wednesday, Oct. 9, at 7:30 p.m. For the past forty-odd years Miss Picken has been speaking to various church, civic and professional groups in some forty states on her experiences and insights concerning India. For over 43 years Miss Picken lived in Bombay State, India, serving as an educator, social worker, administrator of schools and public health worker.

Now retired, Miss Picken has her headquarters in Auburndale. She travels throughout the country speaking to young people, professional men and women, schools and church groups about the great new nation of India. This country, the largest democracy in the world, is now crucially important to us by reason of the unique experiment in self-government being carried out there, although under well-nigh impossible handicaps.

With her vast knowledge of India gained in various capacities as an official and social worker and her experiences as lecturer and storyteller, Miss Picken promises to provide a stimulating evening combining education and entertainment for those who are interested in one of the most significant developments of our time. Miss Picken welcomes discussion and questions after her lecture and slide presentation.

CARD DIVIDENDS

Nowadays, cards are used by millions of people. Charge cards, credit cards, identity cards - all are presented when people want to buy something, borrow something, travel someplace, eat dinner or find a night's lodging. Yet there is one card that opens more doors, frees the imagination, lifts the spirits, and provides more sheer enjoyment than any of these. It is a library card. This little card summons the world's great thinkers to dazzle you with their profound knowledge, at your command. With a library card you can enjoy a look at works of art, you can travel in spirit to exotic lands across the oceans, you can be entertained, amused, educated. A small card, yes - but it pays big dividends.

BALLARDVALE SCHEDULE

The first "Littlest Listeners" schedule is as follows: Lilli Lions - 10 a.m., Thursday, Oct. 3; Ellie Elephants - 10 a.m., Thursday, Oct. 10.

Unit Meeting Scheduled

The League of Women Voters will hold a new member unit on Thursday morning Oct. 10 at 9:15, at the home of Mrs. George Kwass, 10 Porter Rd.

The purpose of this meeting, according to Mrs. Robert James, unit organization chairman, is to acquaint new members with the discussion unit as a means of participating in League activity through study, discussion, and action. Baby sitting will be provided at Christ church.

FOR ACCOMPLISHMENT. Postmaster Francis J. Mooney of the Andover Post Office was presented with an award from the Post Office department this week, recognizing a year of superior accomplishment in the Postal service of the Andover office. On hand for the presentation were, left to right, Thomas J. Connolly, assistant postmaster; Mr. Mooney, Joseph P. Montle, Postal Service officer; Henry J. Dolan, superintendent of mails and John P. O'Brien, foreman.

the community of the Internal Revenue Service, which processes income tax returns from the six New England States and New York state. This alone has increased the work load of the local office with the incoming and outgoing mail, particulary in January through April.

Also contributing to the increased work of the local facility is such firms as Raytheon, which has a considerable daily volume of mail.

Postmaster Mooney has had to program the processing of the huge volume which has descended on the Andover office.

VOTERS

There were only two citizens at the session scheduled for the Central school auditorium. There were town officials, but no voters.

A quorum of 350 is required for the session to be held.

Other items in the warrant include two for the conservation commission and will, in effect, clarify an already approved vote.

Article three deals with the Davidson land near Haggetts pond which was approved for acquisition at the March town meeting. Failure to take a recorded vote, approving the expenditure of bonded money, has necessitated the item again coming before the voters for action.

Similar to this is article four, the acquisition of the so-called tea lots in the Haggetts pond watershed area, which also has been approved previously, but no formal vote recorded, thus action needed again.

The meeting is scheduled to get underway at 8 p.m. in Memorial auditorium of the East Junior High school.

Another educational item scheduled for consideration, is a request for $40,000 to apply for federal aid to establish a learning resource center at the East Junior High school.

Many prayers remain unanswered, pending endorsement of our deeds.

ATTENDED PROGRAM

Marie McLaughlin and Winston Ryan, of the high school guidance department attended a program at Lowell State College last week dealing with data processing systems now being installed in state colleges.

West School Problems Aired At Meeting

What will happen next year in 1969-70 to the three sixth grades and one fifth grade from West school which are being housed this year at West Junior high?

Knowing that the West school addition will not be ready for the next school year, the school committee pondered what to do about increased crowding seen for Sanborn, West, Shawsheen and Central schools next year.

Superintendent of schools Edward I. Erickson saw two alternatives - either put them back in West school, closing down the library to use it for a classroom and hiring helping teachers to cope with larger classes, or leave them in West Junior high, where they admittedly hamper the junior high program to some extent.

According to Erickson, the West Junior high library, art and industrial arts rooms must now be used at some hours to conduct academic classes.

Supt. Erickson "didn't want to talk about" the alternative which chairman Richard Katz said was not mentioned - that of changing the end of this year to the districting plan which will be in force when the West school addition is complete, and running double sessions at West school for one year. While the West school addition is being built, this would provide smaller classes in West Junior high, West school, Sanborn, Shawsheen and Central.

Committeeman William King declared he didn't want to see either double sessions or changing the boundaries two years in a row and said the situation was not too black since large classrooms are not necessarily bad.

Mrs. Virginia Cole pointed out that making the district changes now would relieve the crowding at Central too, since Shawsheen would lose enough children to West so that they could take their own sixth grades back from Stowe. She said Sanborn as well would be relieved by accomplishing the eventual redistricting sooner. She maintained that the junior highs have been crowded for years and their program should be relieved.

More cheerful was Bancroft school building chairman Robert Lloyd's report that Bancroft contractors are moving on schedule, with the exception of the site man, who Lloyd said had enough time. Lloyd saw no reason why the January moving plan would not be met, and the school committee backed his suggestion that supervisor Jack Berberian have at least one custodian on duty by Nov. 1 to "know the building and its mechanics inside and out" and to know exactly where deliveries will be stored.

School committeeman William A. Doherty will represent the Andover school committee as their voting delegate at the Oct. 16 annual Conference of the Massachusetts Association of School Committees at West Harwich. This conference is a joint meeting of the MASC and the Massachusetts Superintendents Association.

The school committee has granted a leave of absence for the remainder of the school year to Francis W. Kennedy, high school chemistry teacher for personal reasons. The leave will be effective as soon as a satisfactory substitute for the remainder of the year has been hired.

Vaughn I. Clapp, assistant superintendent of schools for elementary schools, asks that those people interested in becoming volunteer tutors in the program for perceptually handicapped children come for a registration session today at 10 a.m. at the Memorial Hall Library, in the Great Hall upstairs.

Private Pool Plan Successful

During the summer the Andover Youth Center conducted an experimental program of swimming instruction in private backyard pools of Andover residents. A total of 9 programs were conducted in 7 different pools with 35 eight week courses comprising the programs. There were 280 puplils enrolled with a total attendance of 2,249 in 274 class sessions. Three certified instructors and three junior aquatic aides did the teaching with a ratio of 4.3 pupils per instructor.

The experimental program was well received and several other pool owners have already indicated their intention to offer their pools for use next summer when a much enlarged program will be conducted. The large number of private pools in the community suggest that this type of program can be used to advantage in serving the summer aquatic needs of the town's children.

The Yankee Division celebrated its 50th anniversary in 1967.

"...didn't even know she was married"

Well, she's married all right. You could have read about it a year ago on page six. Her wedding announcement was printed in the same newspaper that recorded her parents' wedding, her birth, her graduation, and now the beginning of another generation.

When each of these events took place they were duly noted and set down in permanent print in the continuing record of our community. From birth and death announcements to chronicling the mighty events of war and peace, newspapers have been printing the facts in America since pre-Colonial times. And if you believe that "printing the facts" is easy, you should sit in an editor's chair, sometime.

If it's in print it stays there. It can be checked and double-checked. It forms a permanent record. It's not chatter in the air, loose talk "... whose edge is sharper than the sword, whose tongue outvenoms all the worms of Nile, whose breath rides on the posting winds...," as Shakespeare put it.

You may take this service lightly. You should live, then, in a community without a newspaper. You would probably find that, without the modifying force of printed news, the winds of slander and controversy would be blowing pretty hard.

Help Sanders build neat little electronic systems... become an assembler or inspector and solve your budget problems.

If the good things are just out of your reach because of a tight budget, perhaps you should consider the opportunity Sanders offers you to do more. You can earn a good income for your family even if you have no idea how to assemble electronic systems. You will also meet some interesting new people and learn some useful new abilities.

You can almost set your own hours. We have a 7:30 to 4 shift in both Bedford and Woburn, plus 9 to 2, 4 to 11, and 6:30 to 10:30 shifts in Bedford.

All you need are good eyes, nimble fingers, and a willingness to learn. We can teach you everything else very quickly, and you will be earning while you learn. As you become more expert, your pay will increase.

And all the while, you and your family will be covered by Sanders' excellent benefit programs.

Sanders is a growing place, a place where you could do some growing too.

CALL Miss Phyllis Squibb at 275-0200 to learn how soon you can start. Drop in to see her between 8:30 and 7 Monday through Thursday, until 4 on Friday, or from 9 to 1 on Saturday. You'll find us on Crosby Road at Routes 3 and 62.

Improvements Scheduled For Route 28

Route 28, South Main St., from Phillips Academy to the North Reading line, is scheduled for improvement by the state Department of Public Works.

The DPW issued a call for bids on Saturday for repaving of the surface of the highway, one of the oldest concrete thoroughfares in the Commonwealth.

The hot topping of the road, originally built with concrete in the 1930's, is planned to provide for a safer roadway for both motorists and residents alike.

Rep. Paul W. Cronin, a member of the House of Representatives Transportation committee, who worked on the proposed improvements, said work would be underway shortly after bids were received by the DPW.

normal cabin temperatures of between 70 to 80 degrees farenheit.

Throughout the entire mission, the metal out of which the Command Module is constructed and the ablative material with which it is covered must shrink and expand together, so as not to cause damage to either surface. For most of the journey the heat shield is a passive participant. But during the few minutes in which it is called upon to deliver, it must be in the same mint condition as when it left the production line many months and many thousands of miles earlier.

For Bentley, Burke, Bubar, Aznoian, Davey, Soboll, and Wilson, Apollo 7 will be of more than routine interest. It will be the culmination of a dream.

"Bugle" is an obsolete term for the bison or ox, from whose horns the musical ancestor of the instrument now known as a bugle was first made.

Modern armies now carry colors only in ceremonies. The practice of carrying colors into battle persisted in the United States Army through the Civil War.
